Inaugural St Andrew's Scholars

Nimalan Sundaram

The vibrant diversity of the St Andrew's community is so unique. This is a united community; inspiring me to take on challenging experiences in every realm. The sense of camaraderie is incredible. I have been inspired to contribute in as many ways as possible, including participation in cricket and soccer, debating, dance and music and of course, academia. My best piece of advice would be to plan and prepare your application diligently – the earlier the better. Preparing for the interview is crucial – good luck!

It's a great privilege to be accepted into the prestigious group and to be recognised for the hard work that has gone into my schooling up to this point. The social aspect of St Andrew's has been the highlight so far. The student-run culture is a great initiative, ensuring the hands-on involvement of everyone. I would advise prospective Scholars to become involved in as much as you can at school and take as many opportunities as possible. I would also stress the importance of social involvement; it's essential for your transition into College life.

Theodora von Arnim

Being a Scholar is an immense honour, providing me with opportunities I would have otherwise never been able to access. I believe I can contribute to the academic strength of St Andrew's, given my strong work ethic and academic ambitions. The most valuable advice I could give prospective students is to be yourself. St Andrew's is interested in authentic individuals with a genuine passion for self-improvement and helping others. This is a key determinant in the quality of applicants.
